FLORIDA OR BUST — That was what the members of the Amanda-Clearcreek Marching Aces Band were thinking Wednesday morning. The band members, along with local boosters and citizens of the Amanda-Clearcreek School District, raised $12,000 to finance the trip. Under the direction of Paul Molyneux, the Marching Aces will participate in "America On Parade" at Walt Disney World in Orlando on August 13. The next day they will be the guests of Walt Disney World for a day of fun and sightseeing.

Buckley Ponders Entry Into Republican Race

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley of New York is reserving the option of a third-man presidential candidacy, leaving Republican National Convention strategists for President Ford and Ronald Reagan to argue over which side would suffer if he ran.

GOP platform draftsmen worked through a sweltering night into early morning hours today, trying to fashion planks that both the Reagan and Ford camps could buy without a fight. Reagan's manager said he wasn't looking for platform trouble, but was ready for contests on the convention floor if necessary.

The close race was reflected in a platform subcommittee vote on the Panama Canal issue. By an 8 to 8 tie vote, a foreign policy panel rejected an attempt by Reagan backers to require that the United States maintain sovereignty over the canal.

Instead, by a 9 to 7 vote today, it adopted language accepted by the Ford administration which said U.S. negotiators should not give up any territory rights needed to protect U.S. security.

The Reagan campaign also readied its forces for a Saturday drive to undo a Ford-backed rule binding delegates from 20 states to vote in accordance with the outcome of presidential primary elections.

And, on a hundred-degree day Wednesday, the Buckley maneuver turned up the political temperature.

A Ford lieutenant tried to talk Buckley into renouncing presidential candidacy. Richard Rosenbaum, the New York GOP chairman, did so with a less-than-subtle suggestion that Buckley might suffer political damage at home, where he is running for reelection to the Senate.

John P. Sears, the Reagan manager, said that the challenger had not tried to encourage or dissuade any potential rival entry into the race for nomination. He disclaimed any involvement in the Buckley move.

Nonetheless, it appeared to mesh with a Reagan convention strategy built around maneuvers designed to keep the Ford organization off balance.

Furthermore, the fact that the move came from the Republican right, from a senator originally elected as a Conservative party candidate, led to speculation that Reagan forces were somehow involved. Buckley said he had been urged to consider candidacy by Republicans aligned with both Reagan and Ford, but he would not identify them.

"I am not a stalking horse," he told a New York news conference. "My only purpose would be to deadlock the convention on the first ballot and thus give all of the delegates a chance to later vote the way they want to."

"I am concerned because many delegates feel they are locked in by the rules and must vote for one candidate even though they prefer the other," Buckley said.

That would fit neatly with the Reagan effort to block the rule binding delegates from the primary states. Sears said the Reagan camp has not encouraged any Republican to vote in defiance of legally binding instructions

AmVets Hold Meet Despite Illness Fear

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Back in Escanaba, Mich., Fred Mathias' friends told him to get his cemetery plot ready before attending the national AmVets convention.

He came anyway, as did AmVets members from across the country, undeterred by the 27 deaths from a still unidentified disease that followed an American Legion convention here last month.

The AmVets national executive director, Leon Sanchez, said attendance when the convention opened Wednesday was slightly ahead of last year even though the AmVets are staying at some of the same hotels used by the legionnaires.

Sanchez said he expected about 2,000 AmVets (American Veterans of World War II-Korea-Vietnam) to attend before the convention ends Sunday, but some apparently have been frightened away.

"We expected 30 other AmVet members from Connecticut to come here, but 19 of them backed out," said Scotty MacKenzie of Bethany, Conn. "They said they weren't coming until they found out what caused the disease."

What caused the outbreak of "legionnaires disease" is still a mystery. Medical researchers now are concentrating on poisonous substances to which persons connected with the state Legion convention July 21-24 might have been exposed.

Researchers in Philadelphia on Wednesday tried to piece together clues by examining the activities of those who attended the convention.

In Connecticut, meanwhile, a team at the University of Connecticut Medical School tested tissue samples from the victims to find out if nickel carbonyl poisoning may have caused the outbreak.

Nickel carbonyl is used in making plastics, petroleum products and synthetic rubber. It is very toxic even in small quantities and produces symptoms similar to those reported by victims of the Legion outbreak.

And in Pittsburgh, Allegheny County Coroner Cyril Wecht said Wednesday he had found evidence of a poisonous substance often used in antifreeze in the bodies of two of the victims.

He said crystals found in the kidneys of the victims indicate they may have ingested ethylene glycol or diethylene glycol. Four ounces of either of the similar compounds would be fatal, he said.

No new cases of the disease that struck the legionnaires have been reported in more than a week, and there has been no evidence of contagious spread. Nonetheless, AmVets officials arranged to have a doctor on call at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Wichita Sniper Kills 2, Wounds 7

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — An 11-minute hail of sniper bullets from the top floor of a Holiday Inn raked shoppers and workers in Wichita's downtown area, killing two persons and wounding seven.

The gunfire on Wednesday from the top of the tallest building in Kansas ended when five police officers fired a volley of shots through a wall, wounding a 19-year-old man armed with two rifles.

The man, identified as Michael Soles of Sand Springs, Okla., was under guard at a hospital. He was reported in fair condition with leg wounds. Charges were expected to be filed today.

Victims of what witnesses said was apparently random firing from the 26th floor of the Holiday Inn Plaza included workmen and office workers, shoppers, teen-agers waiting to buy tickets to a rock concert and a news photographer who had rushed to the scene.

Dead were Joe Goulart, 56, a freelance photographer killed when a bullet smashed through the windshield of his car less than a block from the

Javits Staff Aide Killed In Istanbul

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A staff aide to Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., was among four persons killed in an apparent Palestinian attempt to hijack an Israeli airliner at the Istanbul airport, the U.S. Consulate reported today.

The attack Wednesday night ended with the surrender of two Palestinian terrorists. The El Al jet flew safely to Tel Aviv.

Officials at the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv said the dead American was named Harold Wallace Rosenthal, 29. They said he was a former aide to Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and was on his way to Jerusalem for a conference on the Middle East.

The Anatolia agency said 26 persons were wounded or injured in the attack, including two American women in a party of Presbyterian tourists to the Holy Land from Portland, Ore.

The American Hospital said Margaret Shearer, 40, had a bullet wound in the ankle and was "considerably improved." But Miss Shearer's family in Portland said the injured woman was her sister, Nona, who was traveling with her.

Another member of the American party, Lucille Washburn, 52, suffered bruises on her arms and thighs, a hospital spokesman said.

The other dead were a Japanese, an Israeli and a fourth man believed to have been a Spaniard.

The pilot of the Israeli plane said he was told the attack was made by four terrorists, but accounts of the information given police by the two captured Palestinians indicated they acted alone.

The two men said they smuggled their guns and hand grenades through the Rome airport, which has been the scene of numerous hijackings and terrorist attacks. The newspaper Hurriyet said their plan to hijack the El Al jetliner which was waiting to load passengers, was foiled when police began searching the luggage of transit passengers.

As the two terrorists approached the end of the line before boarding a bus to the plane, they opened their bags, hurled a grenade into the linedup passengers and began spraying the room with submachine guns, police said.

The four died when the grenade blast ripped across the exit gate, breaking windows and causing panic among the crowd. The passengers scattered, seeking shelter behind chairs and under a starcase.

One of the terrorists took a Turkish policewoman hostage and exchanged shots with airport security police who rushed to the lounge and kept them from reaching the jetliner on the runway about 100 yards from the terminal.

The two Palestinians surrendered after an hour-long standoff and negotiations with Istanbul Gov. Namik Kemal Senturk and other officials.

Police said the dead Japanese was a teen-ager with a gun in his shirt, leading them to believe he was one of the terrorists. But a Japanese travel agency said the man was a 40-year-old travel agent accompanying 10 Japanese tourists who escaped unhurt. The Japanese Foreign Office said his name was Yutaka Hirano.

Inflation Pressure Reported Easing In Wholesale Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower food prices held the climb in wholesale prices to a moderate three-tenths of a per cent during July, the government said today, but there was a signal of possible trouble ahead with inflation.

The Labor Department said the July figures mean wholesale prices are rising at an annual rate of 3.6 per cent, after adjustment for seasonal variations. The July increase was in line with increases of four-tenths of a per cent in June and three-tenths of a per cent in May.

The increase left wholesale prices 4.9 per cent ahead of where they were in July 1975, marking the first time in five months that the year-to-year change has been under 5 per cent.

The moderation comes amidst signals that the spurt in economic activity early in the recovery is settling down.

Retail sales, for example, recently have begun drifting after providing most of the push for the recovery. Sales growth dipped in two of the last three months, falling in July to a 7.7 per cent increase over a year ago. Retail sales started out the year up 12 per cent.

But the slower growth in the dollar value of sales has been counterbalanced by lower inflation. Consumer prices went up 6.8 per cent for the year ending in January but were up 5.9 per cent in June.

The slower erosion of buying power means that in terms of the volume of goods purchased, rather than the number of dollars spent, retail sales are growing at a fairly stable rate.

And steadily slowing inflation provides a political counterweight for President Ford, whose economic record has had to absorb two consecutive monthly increases in the unemployment rate to July's 7.8 per cent.

Ford has refused to stimulate employment on the grounds that such action would rekindle inflation.

Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, testified Wednesday that Ford's veto of a bill designed to produce jobs, if not overridden by Congress, would have the effect of adding three-tenths of 1 per cent to the unemployment rates over the next 1½ years.

Mrs. Rivlin echoed the administration's forecast of an unemployment rate slipping below 7 per cent by year-end, despite the recent increases. But she said unemployment would be around 6 per cent at the end of 1977 without the stimulating effects of the jobs bill.

23 Blacks Said Slain In Rioting

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Black unrest exploded in the Cape Town area Wednesday night, and Police Commissioner Gert Prinsloo announced today that 23 blacks were killed.

More than 50 persons were reported injured, but Prinsloo said the exact number was not known. He said it also was not known how many of the dead or wounded were hit by police gunfire.

It was the first serious outbreak of violence in the southern part of South Africa since the black upheaval against the white government's apartheid policy of racial separation began in mid-June in the Johannesburg area 800 miles to the northeast.

The deaths in Cape Town brought to at least 223 the number killed since the first riots in Johannesburg's Soweto township. Forty-five deaths have been reported in the past week.

Riot police fought pitched battles with mobs that burned buildings, looted liquor stores and attacked cars in the Langa and Guguletu black townships just north of Cape Town. The trouble started in the Cape Town ghettos when schoolchildren left their classes to protest the inequality between the white and black school systems.

The students began marching from school to school, calling for the other students to join their protest. The police moved in, and the growing crowds of blacks jeered at them and then began stoning them, officials said.

The police fired tear gas and then bullets, trying to break up the crowds. One mob of about 300 blacks marched on a police station in Guguletu. The police threw up roadblocks around the townships, and rain and a brief hailstorm helped to drive the rioters home.

Police escorted ambulances and fire engines into the townships to collect dead and injured and put out fires.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today as the market absorbed the news of a modest increase in wholesale prices during July.

After opening trades, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction. But declining indexes held a slim lead on those advancing on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the start of the session, the Labor Department reported that wholesale prices rose three-tenths of a per cent in July, a 3.6 per cent annual rate.

Wholesale prices had slipped up four-tenths of a per cent in June and three-tenths of a per cent in May.

Earlier today, Labor Secretary W.J. Usery predicted that the 16-week-old rubber workers strike was near an end. Negotiators reached a breakthrough on basic wage issues.

Early prices today included General Motors, up 1/4 at 67 1/2; Amstar, off 1/2 at 45 1/2; and Kimberly-Clark, off 1/4 at 38 3/4.

On Wednesday, the Dow Jones industrial average declined 6.64 to 986.79, pulling back from a four-point advance early in the session.

Lebanese Fighting Continues

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting raged on all fronts in Beirut and the mountains to the east of the city today, and security and hospital officials estimated more than 150 persons were killed in the past 24 hours.

Christian gunners bombarded the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp with incendiary and fragmentation shells in the second day of a new offensive to overrun the camp and end the seven-week siege of the Moslem fighting forces' last foothold in Christian East Beirut.

Christian broadcasts said Christian leaders were insisting on clearing the 74-acre camp of all civilians and combatants. But the Palestinian guerrilla command reportedly would agree to the evacuation of civilians only.

The Christian Phalange party's radio station said a delegation from the camp led by Sheikh Shams Eddin visited Phalange militia leader Amin Gemayel early today and offered to surrender all civilians in the camp. But the Palestinian command ordered its troops inside the camp to fight on, the broadcast said.

The International Red Cross urged the evacuation of Tal Zaatar's civilians as the "only humanitarian solution" after a Red Cross convoy evacuating wounded was mobbed by desperate inhabitants of the camp.

Red Cross officials indicated that they were confident a new evacuation could be carried out. However, there was no confirmation of reports that the operation was set to begin Friday morning.

Ohio Death Penalty OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge panel has ruled Ohio's death penalty law is in line with the provisions of the ruling issued by the United States Supreme Court.

The judges of the 10th State Court of Appeals made the ruling in a 28-page opinion issued Tuesday.

It made the decision in ruling on an appeal in the case of James Kenneth Weind, 27, who had been sentenced to death for the December 1974 hired murder of Hermalee Ross.

Attorney John C. Nemeth, acting in behalf of Weind, appealed the conviction on the grounds there were 14 cases of judicial error in Weind's original trial which was heard by Judge Frederick T. Williams. The appeal on judicial error is a normal occurrence.

Nemeth claimed Judge Williams abused his discretion in not finding mitigating circumstances that would have precluded the death sentence.

"The court conducted a fair mitigation hearing, completely in accord with the statute and permitted ample opportunity for all sides to cross-examine witnesses or produce testimony," the appeals court held.

Judge John McCormac wrote the opinion with the concurrence of Judges Dean Strausbaugh and Archer Reilly.

Resident theatre organist Dennis James presents a half-hour organ concert before the start of each movie presentation.

An added feature of this summer's series is the 13-chapter serial "The Adventures of Tarzan" starring Elmo Lincoln, the Tarzan of 1921. Each weekend a consecutive chapter is presented as part of the program.

Circleville residents are invited to this special family fare, and on August 20, 21, and 22, will receive a substantial discount on tickets to the movie presentation. The feature times are Friday, August 20 at 8 p.m., Saturday, August 21 at 2 and 8 p.m., and Sunday, August 22 at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

"The Front Page" is based on the 1928 Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur stage classic about the wise-cracking, irreverent, hard-nosed newspapermen of Chicago in the late 1920's. Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau star in this 1974 Universal film written and directed by Billy Wilder.

Wife Still Seeks Word On Niehaus

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A visibly shaken Donna Niehaus, offering a $465,000 reward, Wednesday pleaded with the Venezuelan people for information on the whereabouts of her kidnaped Ohio businessman husband, William F. Niehaus.

"There must be someone who knows where Bill is. Someone who can help me, please," Mrs. Niehaus, nearly crying, said at a news conference.

"I am afraid that the people of Venezuela have forgotten that my husband still is being held captive," Mrs. Niehaus said. "I am worried about the fate and life of my husband."

"I have spoken to friends and my family and I have collected two million bolivars ($465,116) to deliver immediately, here in Venezuela, to any person who can give me any information on Bill's whereabouts," she said.

Niehaus, who was 45 Wednesday, was kidnaped Feb. 27 by ultraleftists. They have issued several communiques since then. In the latest message last Friday, they said Niehaus was "not only alive but in perfect physical and mental condition."

The Venezuelan government has forbidden payment of any ransom or the granting of any of the kidnapers' demands. It was not clear whether it would permit Mrs. Niehaus to pay for information.

"The situation currently is being studied by the government," said an official spokesman who asked not to be identified.

Mrs. Niehaus returned to Venezuela on Tuesday night from her Toledo, Ohio, home, where she took her three teenaged sons after the kidnaping.

"How much more time do we have to wait? My children are in the United States and Bill is here, I don't know where, and I cannot be in two places," she said.

The government claims it has arrested or identified all participants in the kidnaping. Niehaus was local manager for the Toledo-based Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

Medicaid Probe Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — While Ohio's legislature tries to find more dollars to fund Ohio's Medicaid program later this month, federal investigators will be trying to determine if the dollars are being spent properly.

Welfare Director Kwagyr Aggrey announced Wednesday that officials of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will begin a search for possible abuse and fraud starting next Monday.

Aggrey said Gov. James A. Rhodes requested the HEW review last March, but added it is part of a similar effort in the 10 states that spend the most under the $15 billion-a-year Medicaid program.

His announcement came as the House Finance Committee ended two days of testimony on an administration bill that seeks to make up a $127 million deficit in part by imposing a 2 per cent appropriations cut on a majority of Ohio's government agencies.

However, Rhodes' bill is expected to give way in the Democrat-controlled legislature next Tuesday to an alternate proposal that grew out of a joint Medicaid study committee's deliberations.

Deputy Jim Dixon cited Brayshaw for assured clear distance ahead.

Sheriff's deputies also investigated a hit-skip accident at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the report, Carl Rodgers, 20, Columbus, was northbound on Walnut Creek Pike and was rounding a curve when a southbound car went left of center and sideswiped Rodgers' auto. The car then left the scene at a high rate of speed.

Rodgers' car received slight damage.

A passenger in Rodgers' car, Laura L. Rodgers, 2, Columbus, sustained a bruise to the forehead. She was referred to her doctor for treatment.

Cities, States Must Lead Pension Struggle

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

The cures for public pension funds that promise workers more than taxpayers can afford will have to come from the cities and states themselves. The search for solutions at the federal level is floundering.

Since the New York City crisis brought to light the pension problems of many cities and states, officials have tried to identify the nation's trouble spots.

A recent study by the brokerage firm of Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co., for instance, concluded that five state-administered pension systems "appear to be underfunded to a significant degree." That means the state governments have made pension promises to its employees, but haven't faced up to the costs. Nor have they been willing or able to put aside the necessary cash to pay the future costs.

The states named in the study are Illinois, with an unfunded pension debt of $2.99 billion; Massachusetts with $7.4 billion; Connecticut with $2.1 billion; Michigan with $1.9 billion; and Florida with $1.8 billion.

Among city pension systems with giant unfunded pension debts are New York, where five plans have an estimated $8 billion in unfunded liabilities, and Washington, D.C., where three plans are unfunded by $1.8 billion. The Los Angeles City Fire and Police Pension System has unfunded liabilities of $1.69 billion.

Other city systems such as those in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are facing pension problems, but no one really knows how many of the more than 6,000 public plans across the country might be headed for trouble.

Where problems do exist, experts believe the solutions lie in successfully answering several questions:

—What is the pension supposed to do for the worker?

—What will the city or state's pension promises cost future and present taxpayers?

—If the cost is too high, what can be done to control it?

The first question of what a pension is supposed to do is subject to disagreement.

In recent congressional testimony, Bernard Jump and Edward Cupoli of Syracuse University said: "Some would argue that a pension is merely a form of deferred compensation and should be evaluated accordingly. Some view pensions, or more precisely, extraordinarily large pensions after comparatively short service — as in the case of police and fire fighters — as rewards for hazardous work."

The two men said they disagreed with both views and accepted the position put forth by New York's Permanent Commission on Public Employee Pension and Retirement Systems which said: "The career public employee — the individual who devoted a working lifetime of 30 or more years to public service — should be guaranteed at normal retirement age an income which will allow him to maintain his preretirement standard of living."

The step of instituting benefit or contribution changes can be painful, costly and politically difficult for the city or state.

Massachusetts, whose 100 state-administered pension plans have always been on a pay-as-you-go basis, had to start from scratch in its search for solutions.

In 1974, the Massachusetts Retirement Law Commission identified a $7.4 billion unfunded pension liability in the state system. At that time, the state had appropriated $260 million in tax dollars to cover pension costs. A year later, costs shot up to $400 million. The commission estimated that $810 million a year for the next 40 years would be needed to put the state systems on a rational financial basis.

Commission Chairman Carmen Elio said one factor contributing to the problem was a cost-of-living provision fully matching each annual boost in the inflation rate. That provision contributed to an annual growth rate of about 30 per cent in the last five years, according to Elio.

The state legislature finally agreed to what amounted to a moratorium on new benefit increases until the commission could evaluate any boosts.

The commission created a databank of information on the state's active and retired employees which permitted the first systematic study of state pensions since 1946. The study found that 30 years ago, half of a worker's pension cost was funded by the employee's contribution of 5 per cent of his or her annual salary.

Today, the 5 per cent contribution finances only 10 to 15 per cent of the pension cost and the taxpayer must provide the rest.

Legislative proposals were made earlier this year to fund the plan more properly, but they were shunted aside and are considered dead for the rest of the year, largely because the state's general finances have been in difficulty lately.

What makes the choice between proper and improper funding of pensions so difficult is that improper funding is cheaper in the short run. Places like Massachusetts and Washington, D.C., simply budget enough money each year to cover the cost of current retirees.

The problem begins when the pension system "matures" — when a large and larger percentage of participants retire and a smaller and smaller number are left to pay the bill. If the benefits are increased and if cost-of-living adjustments are provided, the strain is compounded. If funds are not set aside each year to provide for these future cost increases, the pension costs will begin to rise sharply.

This already is happening in Washington. A study of the city's systems by Cedric W. Kroll, government actuary for the U.S. Treasury secretary, showed that properly funding the plans would cost the city more than 150 per cent of the current payroll costs immediately. The figure would decline to 60 per cent over the next 40 years.

Even less severe solutions would involve city pension contributions of 72.2 per cent a year of the total payroll indefinitely. If Washington, D.C., does nothing to change its current funding practices, Kroll says the costs will mount steadily to close to 100 per cent of payroll by the year 2000 and will hold there indefinitely.

Beyond acceptance of the principle of proper funding, local pension systems can take a number of general steps to ease their problems, says pension expert Robert Tilove.

The most important step is to integrate benefits paid by the local plan with those from Social Security. This would involve fixing a certain percentage of final salary as a "fair" pension. Social Security and the local pension added together would not be permitted to exceed this percentage.

Since Social Security benefits have been rising so rapidly — about 93.6 per cent in the last six years alone — integration with the local pension plan could relieve a large chunk of the benefit burden.

It also would be a means of cutting back for future employees the generous benefits offered in places like New York City and Philadelphia where workers get both Social Security and a pension.

Another step many states have taken in recent years is consolidation of all local pension plans under a single administrative body, answerable only to the state legislature. This has been done, for instance, in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Illinois. The main benefits from consolidation are a considerable administrative saving and generally better expertise in management of the pension funds.

Some states require that the full present and future cost of any proposed pension increase be calculated and disclosed before the legislature approves it. Ohio, whose systems are among the best financed in the nation, has such a law. As a double check, a special state commission evaluates the health of Ohio's state plans at least once every five years.

Tilove and others have suggested a number of new federal laws, including one abolishing the loophole in the Social Security laws making membership in the system optional for state and local government bodies.

But the outlook for any federal action is bleak, according to congressional staffers working on the problem.

A recent Supreme Court ruling that the federal wage law did not apply to city and state employees was widely interpreted as damaging to federal efforts to regulate local pension plans.

In addition, the Municipal Finance Officers Association, representing state and local finance officers, voiced strong opposition to a House bill aimed at imposing reporting and disclosure regulations on local pension administrators.

Saving The Weeds

Most people are aware the federal government has a list of endangered wildlife species it has taken under its protective wing and in some notable instances has made progress in reversing the trend to oblivion. Now it is well on its way toward adopting a similar list of endangered plant life.

Some 1,700 varieties of weeds, trees and other flora are on the proposed list for federal protection. After a series of public forums, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is approaching the launch of its plant protection program not without some trepidation.

Acknowledging it is not as easy to create enthusiasm for protecting a disappearing weed (yes, there are some) as it is for the grizzly bear or crocodile, the service notes enforcement also could be more difficult.

For one thing, individuals could not be constrained from killing plants on their own property. With 1,700 plants on the list, it also is a good bet that not many individuals would recognize an endangered plant species if they tripped over it.

Now, if the service could find some way of reducing crabgrass, dandelion and purple milkweed to endangered status...

Brother Carter Leads Hymns

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — All of the America's Presidential aspirants, Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, have one characteristic in common: a deficiency of musical talent.

According to the American Music Conference, this assures the country of carrying on its recent tradition of nonprogress in the arts.

"In many historical cases in America," the Conference has stated, "as the President has been friendly or indifferent toward music and the arts—so have the people. Forward movement in music and the arts tends to be strongly influenced by the musical interest and (or) ability of the Chief of State."

Not that our would-be Presidents are tone-deaf or devoid of rhythm. Reagan was a song-and-dance man in movies of the '30s, Ford can hack at the piano keys, and Jimmy Carter sings hymns as well as the next man... but can he sing them as well as past Presidents?

"There were several renowned hymn-singers in the White House," according to a leading authority on the musical propensities of Presidents, Philip Lieson Miller. "Lincoln and Hayes were big hymn men, and so was McKinley. He is supposed to have whispered 'Lead, Kindly Light' as he was dying. Lincoln liked hymns because they were simple. Other simple songs he liked were 'Dixie' and 'Oft in the Stille Nacht.'"

A lot of Presidents could bang their fingers against piano keys. "Nixon was one, of course, and you'd have to put him on about a par with Harry Truman, although it's rather questionable whether he ever enjoyed himself as much as Truman did."

As for son-and-dance men, either former or present, none has ever made it to the White House. Our purest singer probably was Woodrow Wilson, who had a fine tenor voice and sang first tenor in the Princeton Glee Club. Like Harry Truman, Miller told me, "Wilson had a daughter named Margaret who studied with a very good teacher in New York, and gave concerts and made records." No music critics ever assessed Ms. Wilson's talents harshly.

Warren Harding played in a brass band as a young man, and Tyler composed a ballad "and won his wife by singing it to her."

The peak in musical culture among U.S. Presidents was achieved by Thomas Jefferson who, among his other creative talents, played several instruments creditably and was especially facile on violin.

"Jefferson and Patrick Henry used to play duets together, and he had chamber music evenings at home in Monticello. In fact," says historian Miller, "Jefferson was even known for hiring servants who had musical talent, so that they could participate in the music around the house."

The American Music Conference, in a research report, states that George Washington established a musical precedent for the country by playing the violin, the piano and the flute. He was also a good dancer and a regular concert-goer. But John Adams, Washington's successor, had no musical training at all. By the time Jefferson was elected, he saw the country to be in a sad cultural state, and wrote: "Music... is the favorite passion of my soul, and fortune has cast my lot in a country where it is in a state of deplorable barbarism."

As time, and Presidents, went by, the state of music in America fluctuated. "There were three kinds of Presidents in history, musically speaking," said Miller — "those who performed music, those who brought musical culture into the White House, and those whose terms were completely devoid of melody and rhythm. The first White House musicals of any sort go back to Madison. Fillmore brought Jenny Lind to the White House. Garfield could play Chopin and, during his term, Adelina Patti entertained dignitaries."

"Probably the greatest period of music in the White House, however, began with Teddy Roosevelt, who inaugurated East Room musicales and did a lot for young singers who hadn't been discovered. Herbert Hoover, while totally unmusical himself, brought in good talent to entertain him. There was a dead period during the Eisenhower years — Ike played the harmonica, but was more interested in pops than good music. We snapped back, of course, with John Kennedy, who introduced Washington to superior talent in concert form."

Then came the gradual grinding-down of musical leadership from the nation's capital which apparently will continue into the next Administration. But should our Presidential aspirants be blamed for their lack of musical talent? Of course not. It is a sign of the times we live in. We live in an era of mechanical music, turned on by mechanically oriented human beings. Americans all know how to "play" music — on the radio, the TV, the stereo, the tape recorder. Should Presidents be expected to "play" better than their constituents?

No matter who gets elected, we'll still be better off than when Ulysses S. Grant took over the White House... Grant confessed that he knew two tunes:

"One is 'Yankee Doodle' and the other one ain't."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It depends to a great extent upon your point of view, the two disputants agreed, and then they continued their argument, agreeing on nothing else thereafter.

"There are definite signs the economy is losing its momentum," said one, a union official. "Nonsense," snapped the other, a businessman. "No economic recovery ever proceeds without interruptions."

"Well, retail sales were down last month," said the union man. "Fell by 1.2 per cent in July, which puts them right back where they were in March. You call that progress?"

Said the businessman: "I call it statistics. Just wait until they revise those figures. Do you realize they are based on incomplete data and that they are always — always — revised?"

The union man was not deterred. He suggested that people weren't taking out instalment loans the way you'd expect them to be doing at this point in the recovery.

"You can show me all the statistics you can shovel from the barn floor and you won't convince me that retail sales are in bad shape," said the businessman. "Who in the name of Detroit is buying all those cars?"

"I'm glad you asked me that," said the union man, as always, ready to defend himself "with the facts," as he was inclined to say, while disputing those of his opponent. "The rich are buying the cars. Who else can afford them?"

The businessman was incensed. "Rich? I know people earning $16,000 a year who are buying cars."

"Some," answered the union man, and that puts them not only well above the median income but in the upper one-third income bracket. No, they're really not well off, but compared to most people they are.

"Do you really think," he asked, "that a couple earning $13,000 a year and supporting two kids can go out and buy a $5,000 automobile?" He didn't wait for an answer. "Of course they can't; they buy used cars."

"Well," said the businessman, failing to observe that the union man conceded that some union people apparently are relatively well off, "government economists agree that there's lots of money being saved. The records of the savings banks show that to be the case."

"Mere statistics," said the union man. "Did you ever try to break down those statistics? I say that the upper one-third of America came out of the recession but that two-thirds of the people remain in it."

He wasn't through. "This is a big country and it makes no sense to average out the millionaire's savings with those of the person earning the minimum wage, and then say that on average the people are doing well."

They agreed on nothing except that perhaps your approach to the subject depends upon your point of view.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Whenever I eat something sour or acid a lump appears under my chin. After a few hours it disappears. Then I forget about it until it happens again. Isn't this a crazy thing?

Mr. P. V., Iowa

Dear Mr. V.:

No, it is not a "crazy thing." In fact, you seem to be describing accurately a rather common condition.

Sometimes, a small stone lies within the gland that produces saliva. There are six such glands; three on each side and under the chin.

The saliva they produce passes through a tiny tube, into the mouth. Saliva, as you may know, is an important digestive juice. It actually begins the process of digestion while food is still in the mouth.

When one eats food, particularly something that is sour, an added amount of saliva is stimulated. If a tiny stone is present in one of the glands, it may be pushed into the duct and obstruct it.

The saliva then dams back and produces the swelling you describe. When, finally, the saliva seeps around the stone, the gland goes back to its normal size.

During one of these phases, it should be seen by your doctor. Special X-ray studies can be made by inserting the dye into the duct, thus outlining the gland and positively identifying the problem.

In most instances, the stone can be removed. In some cases, the removal of the gland by surgery is necessary.

I have a tendency to chew on the inside of my mouth whenever I get nervous. I've been told that this can lead to cancer. This scared me so that now I'm biting my cheek more than ever. Now what do I do?

Mrs. N. K., Ohio

Dear Mrs. K.:

Now you embark on a sensible program of not biting your cheek.

To terrify you is not the sensible way to get you to stop this habit. To induce the idea of cancer is an unnecessary threat to your complacency.

The irritation set up by your biting may lead to ulceration and infection more quickly than to cancerous degeneration.

One should not have to be scared to be made aware of a habit that should be broken.

Laurelville News

By CELESTA HOY

On Aug. 5 the Herald carried a picture of a Dr. Faye Marshall, and an article about a book she had written. I glanced at the picture and name, as I am sure many of the Laurelville readers did, and I thought it was no one I knew so I passed on to reading something else.

If I would ask the older readers of my items and residents of Laurelville if they remembered a little girl named Laura Faye Dix, they would say they did. Dr. Marshall is that little girl that we knew. She is the daughter of the late George Dix, who for many years was the agriculture teacher in the Laurelville High School. Her mother is Lana Williamson Dix, who was born and raised in Laurelville. Mrs. Dix is now a patient in Pickaway Manor, in Circleville.

After leaving the Laurelville School, the Dix family moved to Amanda, where Mr. Dix taught until he retired. Laura Faye is the wife of the Rev. Robert H. Marshall, and at present they are living in Austin, Texas. Dr. Marshall has a masters degree in library science from the University of Toledo and has more than 10 years experience as a public school librarian. The book which she has written is entitled "Managing the Modern School Library". Other subjects she has written on are psychology, religion, inspiration and philosophical fiction.

I know Mrs. Dix is very proud of her talented daughter and we senior citizens of Laurelville can say we knew Dr. Marshall when she was a little girl whom we met on the village street and said "Hello, Laura Faye."

The Fox Nursing Home had an outdoor barbecue on Aug. 3 which was attended by all the patients, management and employees. Grilled hamburgers and hot dogs were served and each employee brought a covered dish. For desert they had ice cream, cake and pie. All the patients enjoyed the outing very much and were still talking about it the next day. From their enthusiasm, they will be doing it again soon.

Mrs. Connie Hart entertained with a birthday party on Friday evening for her son Mitchell who was seven years old on Aug. 9. After opening his gifts, Mitchell and his little friends enjoyed games both indoors and out. Those helping him celebrate were his brother Joey, Kenny Dillie, Heather Stevenson, Corby Jarvis, Tabatha McNichols, Tonya Ebert, Rodney Micky and Melissa Hart, Renee Nida, Philip Rife, Jeff and Lori Shaw, Matthew Ebert, Tinker Bainter, Doug Murphy, Jeff Beglin, Kevin Garrett, Bill Coon, Chris Shaw and Ranelle Hart.

The grownups present besides the hostess were Mrs. Betty Ebert, Kay Ebert, Mrs. Nancy Hart, Mrs. Linda Shaw, Mrs. Peggy Davis, Mrs. Carolyn Beglin, Mrs. Cheryl Shaw, Mrs. Judy Jarvis and of course, Mitchell's Grandma Celesta.

The 1961 class of Laurelville High School held a reunion on Aug. 1 in the Laurelville park. Those who attended included:

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Biery (Janet Reid) and children; Mr. and Mrs. Bill

Reed (Jane Garrett) and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hunt and sons; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Goss (Linda Weaver); Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Anderson (Glenda Martin) and children; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Unger and children; Mrs. Nona (Meuller) Bowsher; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee McCabe and family; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ricketts and children.

The Dille reunion was held on Sunday at the Laurelville Riding Club on Happy Hollow Road. Family members who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Oman Dille, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spicer and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. George Ash, David and Rita, Mr. and Mrs. O. Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Saffell of LaPlata, Mo. visited from Sunday until Wednesday evening of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Forest Wolf. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eveland. On Tuesday evening the Wolfs and their guests were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carter and daughters at their new home on Rittenour Road, Route 2, Kingston. On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Saffell were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hedges before leaving for their home.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Parents: Help Get Teen Marriage Going

DEAR ABBY: My son David, 18, and Pam, his girlfriend, 16, came to us saying they wanted to marry because Pam was pregnant. We met with Pam's parents who agreed to the marriage, providing David could support Pam and the expected baby.

David tried to enlist in the Air Force but was told he needed the equivalent of a high school diploma (he had quit in his junior year), so he got some books from the library and studied for the exams he has to pass to get into the Air Force.

He passed the exams, and the kids were married at a little church wedding. David then went to Texas for his basic training. After one week, he was sent home with an honorable discharge. They said he was "unable to cope with military life."

This was a terrible blow to all of us. David and Pam are living with us now, but we can't keep them indefinitely. Pam's parents have been very good to the kids, but say they can't live with them. David has looked everywhere for work, but because he has no skill, he can't get a job. He is so discouraged. There is talk of them separating and Pam's going home to her parents.

There must be a solution, but what? If Pam leaves David, I don't think he could survive the blow. What should they do?

DESPERATE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Urge David to look into the nearest vocational-technical school where, in a relatively short time, he can acquire a compensable skill. If you and Pam's parents can assist for a year or two longer, perhaps the marriage can be saved. If the kids are willing to try, can't you?

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who has been in the business world for many years. I have been told that I "think" like a man.

Should a woman take that as a compliment?

THINKS LIKE A MAN

DEAR THINKS: Only if she thinks a man's "thinking" is superior to that of a woman's.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a policeman that he has rights just like any other man?

Abby, this policeman I'm in love with says that he loves me but he will never marry again (he's divorced) because he can't expect a woman to sit home worrying about whether he will make it home that night or not.

Abby, I realize that his work involves a lot of danger, but I'm sure I can handle all the problems connected with it.

A policeman needs a good woman to come home to after a hard day's work, and I want to be his woman, but he won't let me.

He wants to continue seeing me, but he tells me not to expect marriage because he loves me too much to marry me.

Does this make sense?

LOVES A COP

DEAR LOVES: I don't buy it. If it's marriage you want, don't waste any more time on him.

Over the years the instrument died

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Concertist Karel Keldermans' name rings a bell only in the more esoteric circles of American musicology. But his accomplishment reverberates through its annals.

Keldermans is the first person to earn a master's degree from a college in the United States for campanology and carillon performance. In simple terms, that's bell ringing.

After two years' study abroad, he returned home a few weeks ago to accept his degree from Sangamon State University and a post as chief carillonneur for the Springfield Park District.

Four times a week he climbs aloft in the Thomas C. Rees Memorial Carillon — one of 165 such instruments in the nation — and tolls a 66-bell concert.

Just to keep the record straight, there is one other person with a master's degree in theoretical campanology from a U.S. college, but it's not in carillon performance. And the University of Michigan offers a bachelor's degree, but no master's program.

Keldermans' studies, supervised by Sangamon State in a course he designed himself, covered the art of bell playing from casting to clapper.

"It's like studying any other musical instrument," he said in an interview. "You have to know things like harmony, theory, how to read notes and count time. I also studied theoretical stuff — how bells are cast, the mechanism, techniques, the types of keyboards. The paper I did was on comparing the foundry techniques of the 16th century with the 20th century."

Carillons got their start in Belgium, Holland and northern France in the 1500s. "Actually it developed out of about two or three bells that were hung in city halls to warn the city of fire, flood or invasion," Keldermans said. "Then somebody got to messing around with them. About 1450 they decided to add a keyboard."

out. Generals like Napoleon found the bells a good source of brass cannon and the instrument was expensive.

"It's really revived," he said. "It wasn't until this century that they discovered how to cast bells like they used to. It really got started up again in Belgium around 1900."

Keldermans began to study the carillon in his teens under his father, a Belgium-born carillonneur of 40 years' experience who had the Springfield job until he lost it to his son.

Despite the instrument's massive size, one doesn't need a lot of muscles to play.

"You play it with your little finger," Keldermans said. "You've got your hand in the form of a fist. It's just a flick of the wrist. Your little finger is the only thing that hits the keys. If you know how to play correctly, it doesn't require any strength."

Unfortunately there is not enough money in carillon concerts to support a fellow and his family. So Keldermans must work another job.

He's employed by the largest producer and consumer of bells in the world, the telephone company.

out. Generals like Napoleon found the bells a good source of brass cannon and the instrument was expensive.

"It's really revived," he said. "It wasn't until this century that they discovered how to cast bells like they used to. It really got started up again in Belgium around 1900."

Keldermans began to study the carillon in his teens under his father, a Belgium-born carillonneur of 40 years' experience who had the Springfield job until he lost it to his son.

Despite the instrument's massive size, one doesn't need a lot of muscles to play.

"You play it with your little finger," Keldermans said. "You've got your hand in the form of a fist. It's just a flick of the wrist. Your little finger is the only thing that hits the keys. If you know how to play correctly, it doesn't require any strength."

Unfortunately there is not enough money in carillon concerts to support a fellow and his family. So Keldermans must work another job.

He's employed by the largest producer and consumer of bells in the world, the telephone company.

Army Still Seeks Human Guinea Pigs

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than a year after the hunt began, the Army says it still is trying to locate 225 former military personnel who were given LSD in tests dating back at least nine years.

The purpose of the search is to determine whether the test subjects, who did not know they were receiving the mind-altering drug, have suffered any negative after-effects from the Army experiments, conducted between 1955 and 1967.

A total of 516 subjects have been found, but officials said the trails of many have been hard to follow because of the lapse of time since they left the service.

Meanwhile, Army doctors said they finally have developed a battery of psychological and medical tests for gauging possible long-term damage to those who were given LSD.

"We had lots of information on short-term effects of LSD, but there is no body of experience on long-term effects," one doctor said.

Among other things, the Army will try to study some other persons of roughly the same age and military background as the LSD experiment subjects to differentiate between typical health problems resulting from passage of years and those problems stemming from LSD usage.

Forty-two former subjects in the LSD experiments have completed preliminary medical checks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center here.

Army doctors said the results of these examinations are being analyzed and that no conclusions have yet been reached on whether any of them have suffered lingering effects from the LSD experiments.

An additional 219 have agreed to undergo examinations and 143 others either are undecided or have not yet replied to Army offers. Nineteen others have died since leaving the service.

Only 35 of the LSD test subjects have refused to be examined for possible after effects, the Army said.

The Air Force has taken over the task of examining 58 of its former personnel who were involved in the Army experiments.

The Army began looking for the 741 former military personnel in July 1975 after acknowledging publicly for the first time that it had given them LSD.

Army officials defended the experiments as a necessary part of a study of a variety of chemicals and drugs that might pose potential problems for the Army and the civilian population.

Singer Cited In Court Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Marvin Gaye has been cited for contempt of court after missing one month's support payments for his estranged wife and their 10-year-old son, Marvin Jr.

A Los Angeles judge issued a warrant for Gaye's arrest Wednesday and sentenced the singer to two consecutive five-day jail terms. Neither Gaye nor his representatives could be reached for comment.

Dan Barbakow, a lawyer representing Mrs. Gaye, said the 37-year-old singer had already been found in contempt twice this year but escaped penalty after paying the monthly $5,500 to his 52-year-old wife, Anna, and $500 to his son.

Mrs. Gaye filed for divorce in March 1975 after 14 years of marriage. A settlement conference is scheduled for Sept. 7.

Fire Loss $2 Million

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Investigators were examining the ruins of the V.J. McGranahan Inc. warehouse-showroom building on Dayton's near northeast side to determine what caused a fire that destroyed the structure Wednesday night.

Eleven firemen suffered minor injuries, mostly from smoke inhalation, while battling the blaze in the 250-by-150-foot, 44,000-square-foot structure. Flames from the building, on the bank of the Great Miami River, could be seen for miles.

There was no official estimate of damage, but a company official said loss to inventory would amount to more than $2 million. The firm is a wholesale distributor of television and other electronic equipment and home appliances for an eight-county area.

Hospitalized Girl Gets Popsicles

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kimberly Roxby of Woodfield, Ohio, spends her days recuperating from an automobile accident that claimed her mother's life by snacking on her favorite treat, banana popsicles. And because of several persons who heard of her plight, she'll have enough popsicles to keep her happy throughout her recuperation.

Popsicles began arriving by the dozen after newspaper accounts of the fatal wreck in Morehead, Ky., mentioned that Kimberly had asked for a popsicle, but officials in Morehead couldn't find one.

By mid-week, Kimberly had received six dozen of the frozen treats, and more were reportedly on their way to the St. Clair Medical Center here.

Jim Sanford, manager of Lexington's Gracie Maid Ice Cream store, Tuesday delivered four dozen popsicles and a dozen banana bombs.

Trooper Terry Peake, who investigated the fatal accident and has since become a regular visitor to the girl's bedside, said that he received a call from an Elizabethtown woman who "runs an ice cream factory there." She volunteered "several crates of banana popsicles," Peake said.

Helen Foust of Lexington sent a banana popsicle recipe which Peake's wife is using to stockpile a supply for the child.

A hospital spokesman said that the girl now has enough popsicles for the remainder of her expected 12-week stay, and suggests that other concerned people "send cards to her."

CHS Cheerleaders Tops In Camp Competition At Ohio Northern

The Circleville High School Varsity and Reserve Cheerleaders came home with top honors from Cheerleading Camp held at Ohio Northern University located in Ada, Ohio. This was the first Ohio Cheerleading Camp sponsored by the Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals and conducted by the World Cheerleader Council from Dallas, Texas.

The theme of the camp was "Putting

The Leader Back in Cheerleader." Areas of leadership, cheers, chants, tumbling, pom pon routines, skill techniques and pep assemblies were covered in the various classes.

Thirty squads representing 26 different schools attended camp from August 1 to 4.

Circleville varsity and reserve squads returned home with a total of 8 blue ribbons representing superior rating on their daily performance.

On the last day of camp, the World Cheerleader Council Staff honored the Circleville Varsity and Reserve with the Spirit Pennant which they brought home with them. This pennant was given after all squads voted for the school they felt had shown the most spirit for the five days of camp.

Mrs. Doris Gillespie, cheerleader advisor accompanied the cheerleaders to camp.

Booze For Sale Election Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Starting with the November election, Ohio no longer will be a state where you can't buy a drink or a bottle of liquor on election day.

A new law which takes effect Friday repeals the antiquated statute which shut down taverns, bars, and other liquor spots—along with the state's monopoly retail stores—during voting hours.

All will be open Nov. 2, including the state stores which in the past have given their employees the entire day off although bars and restaurants usually let the booze flow again an hour after polls closed, as the old law permitted.

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, sponsored the new law, calling the old one "archaic." He said the days are gone when people "voted publicly and sat under the trees passing the jug around. No one tries to buy votes with whiskey anymore."

Galbraith got little help from his Republican colleagues as his bill squeaked through the Democratic House 55-39 and Senate 17-15. Restaurant and bar owners who claimed the law unfairly penalized their businesses lobbied for him, and may have helped convince Gov. James A. Rhodes who signed the repealer without comment.

The 52-year-old Galbraith said despite the lobbying, the bill represented his "personal conviction that the old law was out of date. Ohio was the only one of the 10 largest states which continued to have such a prohibition."

Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, whose hometown claims to be the "birthplace of prohibition" and remains dry, carried the House opposition. He said he felt simply that "people should be sober when they vote."

He said it wasn't a moral issue with him, but felt the old law "was good for more than 100 years" and was needed to help protect the integrity of Ohio's election process.

Frisch's Report Record Sales

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frisch's Restaurants Inc., has reported record sales of $67,424,135 that produced net earnings of $1,771,479 or $1.09 a share for the fiscal year ended May 30.

The sales increased 12.1 per cent over last year's figure of $60,124,135 and represents the 16th consecutive annual increase since the company went public in 1960.

The earnings for the year ended May 30 represent a 20 per cent increase from the $1,475,970, or 91 cents a share recorded the year before.

The election day liquor law is among five taking effect this week, 90 days after being signed into law by the governor.

Other new laws: take away the authority of county and townships to enact zoning ordinances affecting oil and gas operations; permit senior citizens to take courses without credit or tuition at state universities when space permits; bring health district subsidies under Ohio Public Health Council regulations, and exempt delayed grain contracts held by farmers from the state intangibles tax on stocks, bonds, and other securities.

Hefty New Rates Set For C&SOE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. has been granted a $44.1 million increase at the highest rate of return ever allowed by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

The PUCO action in a 2-1 vote Wednesday made permanent a $21.5 million emergency increase granted to C&SOE on Jan. 13, 1975 and adds another $22.6 million. The company had asked for $60 million.

The rate of return—the amount the company is permitted to earn on its investment—was boosted from 5.9 per cent to 8.58 per cent.

Commissioner David Sweet, who cast the dissenting vote, said the "rates and tariffs stipulated in this case fail to meet the statutory tests of 'just and reasonable' or 'fair and reasonable rate of return.'"

The decision was based on a stipulation—waiving the long hearing process—agreed to by C&SOE, PUCO, the City of Columbus, the attorney general, the Coalition of Concerned Utility Users and others.

New electric rates for the company's 440,000 customers in 25 Ohio counties will be effective in four to six weeks.

For a typical residential consumer using 500 kilowatts of electricity, it will mean an extra $1 on the monthly bill, a company spokesman said.

Sweet said the agreement on the higher rates was prompted by a recent Ohio Supreme Court decision in the General Telephone case which barred the PUCO from making inflationary adjustments in rate cases left pending under Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) formula.

That ratemaking system has been replaced by an original cost formula, but cases such as C&SOE that were filed before Jan. 1, 1976 are still calculated under RCN.

Sweet called for a further test of the court decision in an effort to give the commission more power over the pending cases, including upcoming decisions involving Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and East Ohio Gas. However, he was outvoted by Chairman C. Luther Heckman and Commissioner Sally Bloomfield after the PUCO was advised by a representative of the attorney general's office that the chances for success were poor.

Heckman said another court case could have the end result of even higher rates for consumers. "I just don't think candidly it merits the risk," he said.

Cincy Seeks Budget Help

CINCINNATI (AP) — The city of Cincinnati has taken its budget plight to the people.

City Manager William Donaldson, in letters to the more than 7,000 employees, is seeking suggestions on ways to weather this city's financial pinch.

Donaldson wants ideas on how to cut expenditures and boost productivity in the current money crisis.

The city manager also asked employees to inform friends and families of the "severity" of City Hall's financial situation.

Donaldson said expenses have increased faster than income in the last three years, exhausting the surpluses that were built up in the 1970s. Even though the rate of budget growth was slowed in 1976, he noted a substantial deficit of $16.1 million faces the city in 1977.

Donaldson outlined for employees a five-point plan for financial stability that he has presented to City Council which includes reducing staff over a five-year period through attrition.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

New books in the Children's Room this week cover a variety of themes and are suitable for a variety of reading levels.

"The Wizard's Tears" relates the trials a boy wizard undergoes before learning the wisdom of his elderly predecessor. Some may view this as a commentary on our youth-oriented society, but children will enjoy this story for its entertainment value alone.

"Circus Cannonball" centers not on the circus cannonball, the Great Morelli, but rather on his wife. Aside from the fact that her family travels with the circus, Mrs. Morelli is a typical housewife — much to her dismay. Yearning for excitement and adventure, she undertakes several jobs outside of the home before she finds a career that suits her perfectly. Children should like this sketch of circus characters and scenes. Second grade reading level, but pre-schoolers will enjoy listening and looking at the pictures!

Just in for children reading on the first grade level is "The Big Hello", a story about a little girl's move to California and her subsequent adjustment to the new neighborhood. A happy ending makes this good supportive reading for any child about to be put in a situation involving unfamiliar people.

"Mr. Yowder and the Lion Roar Capsules" is made to order for tall tale fans. In this story Mr. Yowder tries his best to make a profit out of a lion that is so decrepit it can't do anything but roar. Fifth grade reading level, but can entertain younger children as well.

Upper elementary and junior high school children who like true stories of courage and adventure will want to read "Race Against Death". This tale, set in Alaska in 1925, describes the actual race of brave men and sled dogs against time and weather as a town awaits delivery of serum desperately needed to stop a diphtheria epidemic.

By the way, books aren't the only new items in the Children's Room! The Friends of the Library have furnished us with eight warm and colorful animal pictures in poster form. If you haven't seen them yet, you're in for a pleasant surprise! See you soon!

CROSSBRED CHAMP — T.D. Van Camp, 13, a member of the Walnut Wonder Workers 4-H Club, showed the Grand Champion Crossbred Female at the fair. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Van Camp, 585 Ridgewood Drive.

Soviet Grain Crop Good

The Circleville Herald, Thursday August 12, 1976

WASHINGTON (AP) — The findings of a U.S. inspection team that spent three weeks touring Russian grain fields have given support to the projection that the Soviet Union will harvest one of its largest crops on record this year.

The Agriculture Department hasn't lowered its expectation that the Soviets will still buy 9.5 million tons of U.S. corn, wheat and soybeans this marketing year, however.

"We think that they're going to build stocks" after last season's skimpy harvest, a top official says.

Soviet leaders are committed "to keeping the momentum going in their program to increase livestock numbers," Assistant Secretary Richard E. Bell told a news conference Tuesday.

The official new USDA estimate of 1976 Soviet grain production was due to be published today. Bell said he "would be surprised" if it were lower than the current estimate of 195 million metric tons, a level he called "average." A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

The second-largest USSR harvest on record was 195.7 million tons in 1974.

The three members of the inspection team said they visited five spring-grain areas, about 30 per cent of the acreage. They said they found significantly better crops than produced last season.

Ford Toying With Veep Choice

By sending out feelers to at least 16 Republicans and leaving them free to say they've been contacted, the Ford camp has offered every Republican faction a hint that its preferred candidate might wind up on the ticket if the President is nominated.

There's even a glimmer for conservatives who would like Reagan in the second spot if they can't install him as the presidential nominee.

In the close and, for the moment, virtually static competition for presidential nominating votes, the vice presidency has become part of the strategy, with Ford and Reagan using it in opposite ways.

Their goals are the same: to pry loose delegate votes for the presidential nomination.

Reagan designated his running mate, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, two weeks ago, in an effort to broaden his bid for delegate support outside conservative Republican ranks.

His choice of the liberal Schweiker produced no breakthrough in the struggle for delegates, costing him some supporters, gaining him others. The Reagan camp claims the maneuver was a net plus.

If nothing else, it gained the party's attention, and that was one objective of John P. Sears, the campaign manager who engineered the tradition-breaking early selection.

Now Sears is trying to force public disclosure of Ford's selection before the presidential vote, seeking to make advance announcement a convention rule. Dean Burch, a Ford convention strategist, said he is confident the move will be defeated despite "a sort of superficial appeal" in the argument that delegates should know the whole ticket before they ballot.

Ford contends the Schweiker choice hurt Reagan, and that an advance vice presidential announcement would hurt his cause, too.

He is taking the traditional course, and following a familiar strategy, by permitting a series of names to be floated as prospects, thus offering hope to every Republican bloc.

Nominate Ford for the White House, and they may see the vice presidential blank filled by a name they like — a Southerner, a New Englander, a conservative, a liberal, a woman, a diplomat, a Midwestern governor.

Every option pleases somebody; any advance choice would offend somebody, and with a nominating majority 25 votes away, the President's forces want to do only the former.

Hence, the Reagan push for vice presidential announcement before the presidential roll call.

"I think they feel that if Ford would announce somebody, certainly some other delegates wouldn't like that person," said Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, who just happens to be on the Ford prospect list.

There are at least 14 others. "If all the cars should assemble at once at the White House ... you'd have a traffic jam," Dole said.

Former Tiger Stars Perform At Capital

DAVE TRUEX

Circleville High School products Dave Truex and Pat McNaughton have large assignments awaiting them when they report to Capital University's preseason football camp later this month.

Two-sport star Truex, a 6-foot, 187 pounder, will be moved to his fourth defensive position in four years. Selected co-captain with teammate Jeff Bellinski of Canton, Truex will become the Crusaders monster cornerback on defense this fall after playing linebacker a year ago. He was a cornerback as a freshman and a safety as a sophomore and has returned punts throughout his career. A former all-around halfback-quarterback at Circleville, Truex is also a top-flight baseball player and received the university's coveted

PAT McNAUGHTON

Berea Boots award last spring. Truex is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Truex, 431 Glenmont Ct.

McNaughton lettered as an outside linebacker last year as a freshman but will now have to learn to play defensive end since Capital Head Coach Gene Slaughter is moving the 5-10, 180 pound veteran there this year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen J. McNaughton, 558 Gumm Pl., and is a former all-SCOL selection at fullback and linebacker for CHS.

A third Circleville High grad, center-middle guard Tom Strawser, will also be a Crusader this fall. The highly regarded freshman prospect will report with the varsity Aug. 25.

Capital opens its season at Wilmington College Sept. 18.

Miami Again Chosen Favorite In MAC

PERRYSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Dick Crum, the coach of Miami's Mid-American Conference football favorites, knows the odds are heaped against the Redskins winning a record fourth straight league championship. "The law of averages is against you. The balance of this league is stacked against us. But we haven't given up. It can be done," Crum said as newsmen cast his team in the role of favorite Wednesday for the second straight season.

Toledo reeled off title teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Miami has matched that accomplishment in a different manner.

The Rockets did it with the same nucleus, headed by quarterback whiz Chuck Ealey and defensive tackle Mel Long, for three seasons.

"Our situation is different," said Crum. "We've had three different teams, a change in personnel every season."

And 1976 will be no different. The Redskins lost nine of their 22 regulars from the team that rolled up an 11-1-0 record, 6-0-0 in the conference and a third straight Tangerine Bowl triumph.

Still, Miami was established a solid favorite in the newsmen's balloting. The Redskins received 50 of the 62 first-place votes and outpointed secondplace Bowling Green 605-546.

The Falcons were mentioned first 10 times and third-place Ball State, 460 points, and No. 4 Central Michigan, 416 points, once apiece.

Ohio University landed in fifth place with 390 points, Toledo sixth with 306, Kent State seventh with 217, Northern Illinois eighth with 215, Western Michigan ninth with 155 and newcomer Eastern Michigan 10th with 113.

The coaches skipped their annual predictions, claiming the uneven league schedules were a detriment.

This season the MAC will have no automatic qualifier for the Tangerine Bowl. "But we still feel if we can land a team in the Top Twenty," said Commissioner Fred Jacoby, "we have a good chance at some major bowl."

Such a development could spoil Miami's unmatched bowl performances in the last three seasons. The Redskins are the only team in the nation with three bowl triumphs in that span.

Their 32-1-1 record in 1973, 1974 and 1975 is equaled only by national champion Oklahoma.

Crum maintains injuries will decide the ultimate MAC champion this fall.

"The key thing to win the MAC is to stay healthy. We do not have the depth. If the alsorans stay healthy, they can do it. I know in the MAC on any given Saturday, you can be had," said Crum, starting his third season as Miami's head man.

A look at the predicted order of finish, the team's records last year, and their strengths and weaknesses:

MIAMI—11-1-0 overall, 6-0-0 conference. Tailback Rob Carpenter, team's leading rusher and scorer last year, and new quarterback Bob Maxwell or Larry Fortner key items.

Gone is Sherman Smith, a quarterback who accounted for more than 1,000 yards on rushing plays.

The Redskins were second nationally against the rush in 1975. Back on that unit are end Carl Wintzer, tackle Joe Hasenohrl, linebacker Mark Hatgas and monster back Bob Young.

BOWLING GREEN—8-3-0, 4-2-0. Falcons probably have league's best backfield, quarterback Mark Miller, tailback Dave Preston, fullback Dan Saleet and wingback Steve Kuehl. "All those kids can break a game open," said Coach Don Nehlen.

The offensive line and a rebuilt defense, with eight underclassmen, could be the weak links.

BALL STATE—9-2-0, 4-2-0. Art Yaroch returns as a fourth-year quarterback. "He's just a winner," said Coach Dave McClain. "When he has to make the big play, he does it."

Yaroch was second team allleague last year with more than 1,200 total yards and 15 touchdowns passing or running.

The Cardinals will miss defensive back Shafer Suggs and defensive end Art Stringer, now in the National Football League. "We've got a good kicking game and a good defensive line. It's the most team speed on defense we've had," said McClain.

CENTRAL MICHIGAN—6-2-1, 4-1-1. The Chippewas are loaded in the backfield, too, with Walt "Smoke" Hodges, a tailback who has gained more than 3,000 career yards; quarterback Ron Hummel and fullback Mike Gray.

To top his depth, Coach Roy Kramer has ordered freshmen to report three days early. "It's not that I think you can win with freshmen, but we've got to evaluate these young people early. Besides, the alumni say we never do anything differently," he said.

OHIO UNIVERSITY—5-5-1, 3-3-1. Bill Hess overcame a grave illness to return for his 19th season with the Bobcats. The dean of MAC coaches has lost none of his enthusiasm, suggesting, "If we have the good fortune not to lose good personnel, we could can make a run for it."

Tailback Arnold Welcher, with almost 1,200 yards a year ago, is the principal weapon. "This year we have a more realistic schedule," said Hess. "We have an opportunity to win all our games."

TOLEDO—5-6-0, 4-4-0. The Rockets are without quarterback Gene Swick, gone after finishing in the top 10 in eight national career passing categories. He was the first major collegian to surpass 8,000 total yards in his career.

Jeff Hepinstall takes over at quarterback. He is the son of a Michigan prep coach and Toledo mentor Jack Murphy said, "Jeff has better speed than Swick. He will run more, but we still want to throw the football."

KENT STATE—4-7-0, 1-6-0. Graduation also has shorn the Flashes of an exceptional quarterback, Greg Kokal. He led Kent to its sole MAC football title in 1972 before he attended his first college class. Kokal wound up with more than 2,000 total yards last season.

Little-tested Mike Whalen assumes the quarterbacking. The Flashes have been bolstered by the transfer of 205-pound tailback Art Best from Notre Dame.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS—3-8-0, 2-3-0. Former Texas All-American linebacker Pat Culpepper succeeds Jerry Ippoliti as coach and will institute a tough, hard-drilling program. "Kids who make it through our practices won't say, 'I hope we can win' anymore. We're going to be real uncareful. We're a little old school up there in the cornfields, but we're going to ambush someone," he said.

Culpepper will build his first college team around three pro prospects, halfbacks Vince Smith and Ken Moore, a 217-pound converted tight end, and offensive guard Don Palochko.

WESTERN MICHIGAN—1-10-0, 0-7-0. "We're the only team in the conference with nine league games. That's a tough row to hoe. We're young, but improved, bigger, stronger, a little quicker," said Coach Elliot Uzelac.

The Broncos are strong in the offensive line with tackle Rocco Moore and center Mike Sitko. Uzelac predicts heralded newcomer Jerome Persell will be a big addition at halfback.

EASTERN MICHIGAN—4-6-0, no conference record. The other new coach in the MAC, exNotre Dame assistant Ed Chlebek, takes over from George Mans.

"Our strength will be our offensive line, tight end Jim Stansik, tackles Mark Carter and Steve Arndts and guard Ron Gatherright," said Chlebek, once a quarterback standout for rival Western Michigan. "Our weakness will be our defense, everyone passed on us last year."

Fidrych, Tigers Top Rangers, 4-3

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer

They had a party for Mark Fidrych at Tiger Stadium and Willie Horton was the guest of honor.

Fidrych, the zany, mop-haired rookie right-hander with the live fastball, will turn 22 Saturday and 36,523 fans turned up Wednesday night to help him celebrate. Horton didn't get into the act until the ninth inning, but that was just in time to belt a pinch-hit home run for a 4-3 Detroit victory over the Texas Rangers.

"When he hit that ball I could have kissed him," said Tiger Manager Ralph Houk, not usually the kissing type.

Fidrych gave Horton a bear hug after he crossed the plate as the fans roared.

"When he hit that I felt so happy for him," said Fidrych. "He needed that. He hadn't hit a home run in a long time."

Tiger fans, who haven't had much to shout about in recent years, chanted and cheered long after the game ended until Fidrych and Horton returned from the clubhouse to take a bow.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees beat Kansas City 5-3, California dumped Boston 6-0, Minnesota blanked Baltimore 2-0, Cleveland got by Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings and Oakland trimmed Milwaukee 8-5.

Fidrych, 13-4 with a leagueleading 1.97 earned run average, has done more for the Tigers than win ballgames. In the last 10 games he's pitched, 424, 657 fans have come to the ballpark. He hasn't appeared before a crowd of less than 30,000 in that span.

Fidrych was not at his best Wednesday night, surrendering runs in the second on a pair of singles and a passed ball, in the fourth on a homer by Mike Hargrove and in the seventh on a single by Gene Clines.

But the Tigers kept pace as Rusty Staub knocked in a pair of runs with a single and a home run, and Alex Johnson singled in another.

Yankees 5, Royals 3

Fred Stanley's two-run triple highlighted a five-run first inning that carried New York to victory. Doyle Alexander, 7-8, won it with relief help from Sparky Lyle who picked up his 20th save.

Angels 2, Red Sox 0

Left-hander Frank Tanana stopped Boston on two hits — singles by Dwight Evans and Rick Burleson — to raise his record to 14-8. Tanana struck out 10 batters and walked just one as the Angels vacated the cellar in the AL West.

Indians 4, White Sox 3

Rick Manning's run-scoring single in the 10th inning won it for Cleveland. Tommie Smith drove in two runs with a homer and a single, and Jim Kern, 8-5, was the winner in relief.

Twins 2, Orioles 0

Bill Singer snapped a personal five-game losing streak with a five-hitter for Minnesota. Dan Ford knocked in both Minnesota runs with a single and a sacrifice fly.

A's 8, Brewers 5

Bert Campaneris had four hits, scored twice, drove in a run and stole a base as Oakland moved within 8½ games of front-running Kansas City in the AL West. Don Baylor added a two-run homer and Mike Torrez evened his record at 10-10 for the A's.

The Circleville Major League All-Stars defeated Whitehall Red 9-7 Wednesday at the Ashville Tournament. Dusty Miller paced the Circleville attack with a home run and two doubles for a perfect three-for-three day and three runs batted in. Willie Uhl, John Grabans and Jeff McGowan contributed two hits while Barry Sealock, Fred Pyles, Jeff Williams and Jeff Lewis all had hits. Lewis added two important runs batted in. Uhl and Kevin Weaver allowed four walks and whiffed seven.

Next game for the local lads is 8 p.m. today versus Groveport at Ashville. Friday, they will play at Chillicothe at 8 p.m.

Many Changes In Store For Mid Ohio's 6-Hour Race

MANSFIELD — The Camel GT and Radial Challenge series, both organized by the International Motor Sports Assn., are not the same as they were in 1975, coming into the 5th Annual IMSA 6-Hour weekend at the Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course on Aug. 28-29.

Reds Near Ticket Mark

CINCINNATI (AP) — Success sells — and so are Cincinnati Reds tickets.

Despite having the second smallest fan market among major league teams, the Reds can break baseball's all-time attendance record by averaging 40,000 fans per game for their last 26 home games.

Running 290,000 ahead of last year's pace when they drew 2.3 million, Cincinnati is within striking distance of the 14-year mark of 2.7 million set by the 1962 Los Angeles Dodgers.

"People around here are just caught up with baseball," said Dale Stoeber, director of ticket sales for the Reds.

The Reds have attracted 1.7 million fans so far and figure to top the two million mark for the fourth straight year in the upcoming 13 game home stand beginning Monday.

Stoeber says the Reds are currently averaging 35,800 per game and would need to draw one million fans for the last two months of the season to break the Dodger record.

The New York Mets of 1970 and the Cleveland Indians of 1948 ranks second and third on the all-time list, drawing more than 2.6 million.

The Reds are currently No. 2 in attendance behind the Dodgers for this season, but could dethrone Los Angeles with a strong finish.

The sum of more than $4 million in uncashed Off Track Betting tickets was turned over to New York State April 1.

The Thoroughbred Racing Assn. reports more than $495,000 was turned over to New York State April 1. It was money from winning tickets the public failed to redeem.

Tribe Edges Chisox, 4-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians Manager Frank Robinson is always happy when his team wins, but Wednesday's 4-3 10-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox gave him an additional cause for celebration.

The Indians uncharacteristically rebounded after blowing a two-run lead with two out in the ninth inning to win the game in the tenth on Rick Manning's opposite field single.

"We've been known to collapse in the past," Robinson remarked. "Tonight, we came right back and got the run. It's very encouraging."

The victim of the Sox' eleventh hour uprising was Indians' starter Jackie Brown, who failed to win for his ninth straight start.

"I can't explain it," he said. "For some reason the ball club just isn't scoring runs for me."

He continued, "There's no doubt in my mind that with a few breaks I could be 15-6, the winningest pitcher in the league."

Reds Beat Cubs In Slugfest, 13-10

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson was ready to throw in the towel when his team fell nine runs behind the Cubs, but Reds second baseman Joe Morgan knew better.

When the wind is howling at Chicago's Wrigley Field, as it was Wednesday, no lead is safe.

"In the second inning, when we trailed 9-0, I told Morgan to mark one in the right-hand column — the loss column — for us," said Anderson. "There was no way we were going to win this game."

"But Joe told me I was out of my mind — when you play in Wrigley Field, you always have a shot."

The Reds, trailing the Cubs 9-0 and 10-1 in the early going, came back with their best shot. Two runs in the sixth on a Tony Perez homer. Four more in the seventh — three on a homer by Johnny Bench. One in the eighth on an RBI single by Bench. The gap was down to 10-8.

Then, in the ninth, Ken Griffey cracked his sixth homer of the year, a dramatic, two-out, two-run shot that brought the Reds even.

By the 10th, though the score was tied, the outcome was virtually assured. Three Reds runs, aided by a pair of Cub errors, capped the comeback.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Atlanta Braves 4-1, the Montreal Expos outscored the San Francisco Giants 9-3, the New York Mets edged the San Diego Padres 2-1 and the Houston Astros defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 8-1.

"With the wind blowing out in Wrigley Field, it's such a hitters' paradise that I'd really rather be behind than have a big lead," said Anderson, who got his wish as Steve Swisher drove in four runs with a single and a pair of triples — one in a seven-run second inning that featured eight consecutive hits — as Chicago built a 10-1 lead.

But Cubs starter Bill Bonham couldn't stand the prosperity.

Phil's 4, Braves 1

Philadelphia snapped a 1-1 tie with a pair of runs in the fifth, thanks to two throwing errors by Atlanta third baseman Jerry Royster.

The Phillies now lead the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East race by 14½ games — their widest margin of the season.

Dodgers 2, Pirates 0

Ron Cey belted his 18th homer of the year to back the five-hit pitching of Rick Rhoden, who struck out four and walked three in raising his record to 10-1.

Mets 2, Padres 1

Mike Vail drove in both Mets runs with a first-inning double and Jon Matlack and Skip Lockwood made them stand up by combining on a seven-hitter. Matlack got his 12th victory and Lockwood his 13th save.

Expos 9, Giants 3

Tim Foli belted a two-run double to key a six-run outburst in the sixth inning which broke the game open for Montreal. Larry Parrish, Del Unser and Woodie Fryman had run-scoring singles and Gary Carter, who homered earlier, drove in a run with a triple in the big inning.

Astros 8, Cards 1

Larry Dierker, 12-10, scattered nine hits for Houston, which scored three runs in the third and four more in the sixth. Wilbur Howard's run-scoring triple was the key blow in the third and Ken Boswell's two-run double highlighted the seventh.

Crenshaw Favored In PGA Tournament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading money winner Ben Crenshaw refuses to take seriously the prediction of many observers that he is the man to beat in the 58th PGA Golf Championship, starting today.

"If I won, I would feel like I stole it," the young Texan said bluntly.

As he prepared to tee off against 139 professional rivals, the 24-year-old tour fledgling found himself confronted with all sorts of pressures — topping the year's money list with $213,201, hailed as the future super star and headlined in Washington papers as the pretournament favorite.

Crenshaw played his final practice round with two other of the most formidable young lions — Jerry Pate and George Burns III — and the recognized king of the game, Jack Nicklaus, winner of 16 major crowns.

Out of the tough Texas proving ground that produced such fairway greats as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Lee Trevino and cut from the same bolt of cloth, Crenshaw has measured up to all expectations except one — he has not yet won a major championship.

Off to a strong start, he has turned this into one of his finest years. He won the Crosby and Hawaii tournaments on consecutive weekends, finished second in the Masters as well as Pleasant Valley and Westchester and tied for eighth in the U.S. Open at Atlanta.

He has finished in the top 10 in 12 of 23 starts, his total prize money of $213,201 exceeding that of second place Hubert Green by almost $25,000. Nicklaus, with only one tournament victory, has won $152,019.

Archbold Faces Piqua In Legion Ball

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — A rejuvenated Archbold team, with two victories after suffering a 16-0 loss in its opening game in the state American Legion baseball tournament, met Piqua today in its quest for the state title.

But Archbold had its hands full with the Miami County squad, which has lost only six of 46 games this season. Archbold is 22-10.

Meanwhile, Columbus Scioto, by virtue of its unbeaten status in the tournament, waited on the sidelines for the survivor of the losers bracket competition.

In other games today, Athens squared off against Maynard and the winner of the Archbold-Piqua clash was to meet Willoughby.

Scioto won a berth in the championship game Friday afternoon by beating Willoughby 4-2 Wednesday after relief pitcher Chip Loftus squelched a Willoughby rally in the eighth inning by striking out two batters with two men on base.

The loss was the first of the tournament for Willoughby, which now must survive two more games in order to reach the finale.

Archbold rolled over Cincinnati Woodlawn 12-4 aided by a three-hit performance by Phil Nofziger.

In other action Wednesday, with the losers being eliminated, Athens beat Lima 6-5 when Pete Abele singled in the winning run in the ninth inning; Piqua breezed past Coshocton 7-4 after jumping off to a 7-0 lead, and Maynard downed Kent 7-3 after reliever Frank Gregory retired the side with the bases loaded in the eighth inning.

Isaac Curtis Set For Pass Patterns

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals Isaac Curtis, whose 21.1 yards per reception was tops in the National Football League, has been assigned to more short and intermediate pass patterns this year but the wide receiver still plans on scoring.

"I don't have to catch them and fall down," said Curtis, "I'm going to catch them and run."

"The way it is with Isaac," said Coach Bill Johnson, "quite obviously, the more we get the ball to him, the better. He's a threat with that ball under his arm."

The number of documented yachts in the United States numbered 38,262 at the end of 1974.

Giants Post Win Over Jets, 16-14

NEW YORK (AP) — John Mendenhall, the New York Giants' defensive tackle, raced onto the field and jumped high in the air, giving the victory sign over and over, as a salute to George Hunt's third field goal, which had just beaten the New York Jets 16-14 Wednesday night.

Hunt's game winner came from 34 yards out with a mere 16 seconds left on the clock — and it meant nothing in the standings of the National Football League. But to Mendenhall and the Giants, it was bragging rights for the entire season.

"We proved we are better than them," said John. "This team is going to be all right this year and beating the Jets is still a big thing."

"Both teams played well," said Giants Coach Bill Arnsparger. "New York may have two good teams this year."

Hunt, who had missed repeatedly in 1975 on field goal and extra point attempts, redeemed himself, with three for four, hitting on shots from 23, 37 and 34 yards, and missing on a 32-yarder which hit the right upright.

"We timed things tonight. I got my kicks off in 1.3 seconds. When they take as long as 1.4, it means you run a big chance of being blocked. After last year we worked long and hard to tighten up coordination between the line and myself. This is gratifying."

For the Giants, the victory was a morale booster, and they raised their record against the Jets in preseason play since 1969 to 5-2-1. They split two regular-season games, with the Jets winning the last one, in 1974, in overtime.

The serious nature of the contest was shown by the fact that Arnsparger and Jets Coach Lou Holtz left their regulars in most of the game. Only Joe Namath (10 of 24 and 116 yards) and Craig Morton (19 of 32 and 211 yards) worked at quarterback.

After the Jets had seemingly scored the winning TD, with just 2:12 left via a seven-yard Namath pass to rookie running back Lou Giammona, the Giants roared back to win the game. Starting on their own 29, they reached striking distance for Hunt.

Namath had driven the Jets 61 yards in 12 plays to set up the score, with Ed Marinaro doing most of the work. The ex-Minnesota running back got 95 yards in 18 carries.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Watch your budget now. Don't go beyond limits until a pending financial matter is definitely settled. Some new angles could delay matters.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Neither be extravagant in an effort to impress others nor fall for any ostentatiousness displayed for your benefit. Concentrate on the REAL!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Be sensibly cautious in making investments (of time OR money) - but not anxious. Emphasize the Geminian's innate good judgment and foresight.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Early a.m. will hold some restrictions, with all effort seeming futile. Be patient: The hours after noon will see an uptrend in all your endeavors.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Not a good day in which to start new ventures. Stick to routine insofar as possible and postpone the extracurricular until early next week.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Take a dignified approach to all problems. In personal relationships, there may be some differences to recognize, cope with.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Planetary influences somewhat mixed. Be constructive in planning, tenacious in implementing. System with flexibility needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Perceptiveness, reflexes and business acumen should be keen now. Especially favored under day's influences: merchandising, property transactions and financial negotiations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Keep alert. Generous influences offer new routes and means for attaining better-than-average gains. Don't miss out!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A good day in which to capitalize on your ingenuity and all-around competence. Properly exercised, even your most minor talents and efforts will be appreciated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): In the tight spots, patiently wait out those things which call for more thought and delaying tactics. Avoid impulsiveness, at all costs.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some misleading influences prevail, so be careful of your involvements - with people or situations. Avoid anxiety or undue suspicion, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with personality-plus; can reach almost unscalable heights with ingenuity and dash. You are suited to any field which brings you in contact with the public; are a born leader, a salesman beyond par and, in anything you do, have a flair for the dramatic. You have a regal outlook on life, thus may become too domineering, too proud, but your innate kindness and generosity to others often offsets these traits. Birthdate of: Alfred Hitchcock, writer, film producer and director; George Grove, composer; Bert Lahr, comedian.

Georgia ranks first in the production of peanuts in the United States.

Phone Rate Time Extended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bell Telephone customers will get an extra 2½ weeks to decide whether they want the new "measured service" system of billing.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio extended Wednesday the Aug. 13 deadline for changing over to the new service because the flood of applications is expected to produce a backlog.

Under the PUCO order, a customer who applies before Sept. 1, will be billed retroactive to Aug. 13 at the measured service rates.

The new higher rate structure effective Friday actually affords a lower flat rate for customers who make 30 calls or less a month. After the first 30 calls, the charge is 9 cents per call; a total of 68 calls would bring the measured service customer's bill to the same level as a person choosing regular unlimited service.

The PUCO decision in no way delays the imposition of new rates but merely allows customers a grace period to switch to the flat rate without interim billing under the higher rates for unlimited service.

Measured service can be acquired after Sept. 1, but not on a retroactive basis.

Williamsport News

Attention! Attention!

All Williamsport area citizens are being alerted to a very important meeting to be held Aug. 18. Subject: future of the Williamsport school grounds. The meeting will begin promptly at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Planned by members of village council, our mayor and Deercreek Township trustees, the meeting is an outgrowth of a prior meeting of these persons with the Westfall Board of Education. No urging should be necessary to have concerned and interested residents fill the Legion hall for this vitally important issue.

Thadd Howell, the young man I wrote about several weeks ago who had the privilege of spending a fabulous summer in Canada, has returned home via jet and was here long enough to re-pack and be off to band camp with fellow Westfall band members. Camp is being held this year in the London vicinity.

Thadd's parents Jim and Betty

Howell and sisters LuAnn and Missy spent a recent weekend down on the farm near Steubenville with Uncle Donald and Aunt Eleanor Robinson. Uncle Charles Phelps from Florida was there, too, which made it all the more enjoyable. Instead of the usual "cotton pickin'" time it was berry pickin' for the Howells. They had much pleasure visiting with long time friends and other relatives of the locale also.

The tanned and terrific Deans, Jim, Karen, Michele and Nichole are following the daily routine once again after a Clearwater Beach, and other points of interest, Florida vacation.

Gene and Glenna Steinhauser tasted the delights of camping life last week when they joined their daughter Sue and her family, hubby Dick Banks, sons Trent and Robbie at Rocky Fork Lake. The Banks family of Columbus have their own camping vehicle. Don't be too surprised if one "pops up" in the driveway at the Steinhausers. Trail hiking, fishing, swimming, campfires were but a few of the pleasures for the week.

Jill Garmire, who is recuperating from recent surgery, wants all those who remembered her with cards and notes of best wishes to know that she was so thrilled and pleased to hear from them. Jill's parents, John and Minnie Steinhauser keep in close touch with her especially since complications have slowed her recovery. Residents for some time at Niles, Mich., the Garmires have recently moved into a newly purchased home at Buchanan, Mich.

Pete and Pearl Cochenour have had the pleasure of company from Pennsylvania with the first guests being Mr. and Mrs. Rusty Ayers and daughter Darlene of Freedom, Pa. Then it was the Roy Brayshaws from Monaca, Pa. Roy is Pearl's brother and also a brother of Jack Brayshaw who resides in our town.

will mark their 23rd year of serving the community on Aug. 14 and the two partners, Norm and Junior, wish to take this opportunity to extend a special thank you to customers and friends for patronizing them over the years. They note with special pride that in the 23 years they have had the privilege of serving four generations with two of the families being the Earl Metzgers and the Harry Puffinbarger Sr. lineage.

By the same token all of us need to express a special thanks to Norm and Junior for faith in their community and always being ready and willing to serve all worthwhile civic endeavors. J. Norman Leist and his wife Evelyn Strawser Leist have one daughter Patty (Mrs. Roy Downing) and a grandson "Little Jacob". Harry A. Keller and his wife Loretta Hill Keller are the parents of one daughter Lana who will be a sixth grader at Westfall Middle School this fall.

It was family reunion time for sure at the homes of Mrs. Viva Hastings and Bob and Evelyn Hastings, Cindy, Kim and George when Homer and Mary Hastings Breault, Kori and Kris of Karthous, Pa.; Mrs. Chalmer (Kathleen Breault) Anderson and her Michele of Petrolia, Pa.; Fred and Hazel Hastings Speece and son Gregory of Yakima, Wash., were here for a week and on the weekend were joined by another brother Frank Hastings from Springfield.

Along with the Breault family was a friend of Kori's. What a joy for Viva to have all her children, grandchildren and great-grandchild together at one time. The convenience of Viva and son Bob's homes being adjacent made for comfortable sleeping over arrangements and get togethers.

Lots of interest is generating around town this week over the upcoming late Gene Alkire auction. A note in the mail from his niece Dorothy Alkire relates that the property she inherited from her uncle has been sold to Ken Rigby who is doing extensive remodeling. The house had been unoccupied for several years. It will be really nice to see it "bloom" with life once again.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

Twisters Hit Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms diminished this morning in intensity and range. But they could still be found in the central plains, the mid-Mississippi valley and the upper Great Lakes, with the heaviest activity located in central Illinois.

Five tornadoes were reported Wednesday. Florida had two twisters and Iowa and Georgia one each. A tornado was spotted shortly before midnight in central Illinois. There were no reports of any injuries.

Scattered thunderstorms developed Wednesday over the central plateau. There was little precipitation from these storms, but they were accompanied by gusty winds.

It was mostly clear this morning from Texas through the lower Mississippi valley, the Southeast, the Atlantic coast states, New England and much of the Southwest. The rest of the nation had partly cloudy to cloudy skies.

Early-morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 48 at Laramie, Wyo., to 91 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Crown Princess Schedules Sing

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norway's Crown Princess Sonja will make her first appearance as a vocalist Aug. 29 at the opening of the annual Red Cross fair "Momarkedet."

The newspaper Verdens Gang said Wednesday that organizers of the fair persuaded the princess to sing with Sigurd Jansen's orchestra.

After the show, she is to receive a check for 50,000 kroner ($10,000) for Princess Maertha Louise's Fund for Handicapped People, named after the crown princess' daughter.

Some 10,000 people are expected to attend the fair.

Rubber Settlement Reported Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in the rubber workers' strike reached a breakthrough agreement on basic wage issues early today, and Labor Secretary W.J. Usery predicted it would bring the 16-week-old strike to an end.

United Rubber Workers President Peter Bommarito reached the agreement on wages with Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. representatives in the middle of the night after five days of "virtually continuous bargaining," Usery said.

The agreement still must be approved by the URW-Firestone bargaining committee in Akron, Ohio, and other master contract issues remain to be resolved, Usery said.

But Usery and top federal mediator James F. Searce predicted:

"We expect it to serve as a pattern for settlement of economic issues for other contracts between the United Rubber Workers and the rubber industry. And we feel it will bring an end to the 114-day-long strike by the union against the four major American rubber companies, Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear and Uniroyal."

Some 60,000 rubber workers have been on strike since April 21.

Usery and Searce did not disclose details, but in a joint statement said that, "this economic package is more expensive than other settlements negotiated this year."

They added:

"At the same time, we recognize that the members of the URW were caught in the restrictions of wage controls when they agreed to their last contract three years ago. URW members were among the few in major industries who received no cost of living protection during the time when inflation was at its worst."

They said the agreement "generally follows the recommendation for settlement made by us to the parties on Sunday."

The rubber workers had demanded a $1.65 an hour raise in a three-year contract with unlimited cost of living protection. The last announced industry offer was $1.30 an hour, with cost of living protection only in the last two years.

Rubber workers make an average of $5.50 an hour in straight wages under the old contract.

The union claimed it needed a hefty wage boost to restore rubber workers' traditional parity with auto workers.

A spokesman for Usery said there was "no way to project" how soon rubber workers might be back on the job.

Usery and Searce said the URW-Firestone agreement contains provisions to improve the bargaining climate in the rubber industry and prevent a repetition of "the hardships that have been caused by this extended dispute."

FBI Sets Review Of Informer Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley is launching a major review of policies for recruiting, using and paying informers.

"I am not satisfied that our present program ... best meets our needs," Kelley said in announcing the project Wednesday. "I am not satisfied that we have sufficiently explained to the American people the necessity for having sources."

At a news conference, Kelley said he Buckley...

from his state, or to abstain on a first convention ballot so as to avoid voting for Ford if he personally preferred Reagan.

He said a convention rule binding primary delegates could lead to court challenges after the nomination. Sears said the Reagan camp will press its opposition in the convention rules committee on Saturday and on the floor if necessary.

The Associated Press count of delegate votes put Ford at 1,105, 25 short of a nominating majority; Reagan at 1,032; with 122 uncommitted.

Sears said Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes on the first ballot. Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Ford's floor manager said the President now has about 1,135.

That, of course, reckons without Buckley, who indicated he will decide this weekend whether he really will run.

It is doubtful Buckley could have his name formally placed in nomination, with the nominating speeches that herald major candidates. Republican rules require that a candidate demonstrate majority support in at least five delegations to be so entered. But nothing in the rules would bar delegates from voting for a candidate not formally nominated, and a relative handful could be crucial in the close Republican contest.

"There is a visceral feeling that the field ought to be broader," Buckley said. "The convention ought to be consulted and not dictated to."

The White House announced that President Ford will fly to Kansas City Sunday night, and will meet with delegates and party leaders to discuss possible vice presidential candidates. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Ford and 62 staff members. Reagan also is due in Kansas City on Sunday.

Postal Service Said Better

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar, responding Wednesday to public outcry at the recent postal hike, said Americans "are receiving more than 13 cents worth of service."

He defended the efficiency of the five-year-old Postal Service, saying "it would be a grave mistake" to revert back to congressional control.

Bailar told a Cincinnati economic group that other major countries are paying almost twice as much to mail a letter.

Bailar said "the plain, unvarnished truth is that the average citizen, in purchasing and using this stamp, is receiving more than 13 cents worth of service."

His remarks were made to a Greater Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce Economic Forum.

Bailar said U.S. postal rates are lower than almost every industrialized nation, except Canada, where rates are heavily subsidized and a labor upheaval exists.

He noted that it costs 23 cents to mail a letter in Australia and Sweden, 19½ in West Germany, 18 in France, and 17 in Great Britain, where it is soon scheduled to cost 22 cents.

Bailar said that while Americans had a three-cent stamp for two decades, "it was a stamp whose face price during the latter part of that period bore little resemblance to its true cost." He said the difference was being made up "by heavy subsidies—subsidies that came mainly from the pocket of the average taxpayer."

He said passage of the Postal Reorganization Act did away with congressional appropriations that made up such deficits. Besides eliminating "massive, near-automatic subsidies," he said the PRA provides the public with knowing "the real cost of mailing a letter."

The measure thus "was really a Truth-in-Postal-Pricing Act," Bailar said.

He pointed out that mail delivery has been motorized from about 50 per cent in 1970 to more than 80 per cent today.

Bailar said the new system of 21 major processing plants connected by a transportation network has allowed the postal department to apply industrial engineering techniques to mail processing for the first time.

He said the American postal worker is now "the most productive of any industrialized nation, handling 127,000 pieces of mail a year. Bailar said that figure is 11 per cent ahead of Canada, the closest challenger and 2½ times as much as Great Britain and West Germany.

Modernization has cut 60,000 positions from the work rolls since 1970, resulting in a cost avoidance of almost one billion dollars, Bailar said.

"Most important, the potentially-destructive trend of ever increasing postal employment has been shattered," he added.

The 41-year-old postal head said postal reform, boosted by new technology, has upgraded an operation "that was, in the words of former Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, on a collision course with disaster."

Bailar said the Postal Service, in its five years of existence, "has shattered this exclusive dependence on manpower."
